

A Topaz Moon

A topaz moon, set against an opaque sky
Is looking down upon the misty mountainside
As I'm driving home in a haze of my own
Just thinking about you again and wond'rin' what went wrong.

Was it like you said when you left me standing there
That you couldn't give any more and I was too much to bear?
But it takes two hearts before a flame of passion starts
So it goes to figure that we're both to blame.

Chorus: And I look up at the sky and I try to find eternity
 And I ask what it is I'm suppose to do
 But eternity doesn't want to deal with me
 And a topaz moon never answers.

Someday time and space are gonna be no more.
The devil in his place, God'll open up the door
But 'til that day of rest, with ev'ry bit of happiness
There's always gonna be a little achin'.

Chorus: And I look up at the sky and I try to find eternity
 And I ask what it is I'm suppose to do
 But eternity doesn't want to deal with me
 And a topaz moon never answers.
