

Becky Buller & Ned Luberecki

The 2016 IBMA Fiddler and Female Vocalist and the 2018 IBMA Banjo Player have combined their musical wit and whimsy with the aim to entertain you in a bluegrass duo sort of way!

Becky Buller has written songs for the likes of The Traveling McCourys, The Infamous Stringdusters, Special Consensus, Rhonda Vincent, Doyle Lawson, Russell Moore & Illrd Tyme Out, Kenny & Amanda Smith, Darin & Brooke Aldridge, and many more. She heads up the Becky Buller Band (of which Ned is a member); she teaches private music lessons from her home studio in Manchester, Tenn.; she serves on the board of the IBMA Foundation; she's Jeff's wife and Romy's mama. Her latest album, Distance And Time, was a 2021 IBMA Album Of The Year award nominee. She is a 10-time IBMA award winner and records for the Dark Shadow Recording label.

Ned Luberecki is one of our favorite voices on Sirius/XM Satellite Radio's Bluegrass Junction, heading up Saturday's "Derailed" show and "More Banjo Sunday", which includes the ever-popular "Sunday Banjo Lesson". The Bluegrass Junction team received a 2016 IBMA Distinguished Achievement award. Ned is an internationally recognized banjo guru: he teaches online lessons, has a series of banjo instructional videos with TrueFire and a series of books with Alfred Publishing. Ned is also the voice of the IBMA Award Show. He has two singles that are doing well on the radio airplay charts: "Back In Baltimore" and "Magrathea"; listen for them wherever you grab your music. Ned and his wife, Kelley, live in Nashville, Tenn.

For more about Becky and Ned, visit them online at:

BeckyBuller.com and nedski.com

For booking inquiries:

info@beckybuller.com or ned@nedski.com